

Jane Graham McKay and Katherine Hill McKay Scholarship Available 2018 Application Cycle Now Open

LAURINBURG – Applications are now available for the Jane Graham McKay and Katherine Hill McKay Scholarship.

Scholarships will be awarded to deserving North Carolina students pursuing an undergraduate degree in education, with an emphasis on elementary education. Preference will be given to students from Scotland County and/or students attending St. Andrews University in Laurinburg.

The McKay Scholarship fund was established at Foundation For The Carolinas by the late sisters Katherine and Jane McKay. Scholarship opportunities are also available to members of Laurinburg Presbyterian Church, the McKay sisters' spiritual home, as well as members of their mother's church, First United Methodist in Laurinburg.

The application deadline is March 2, 2018, and prospective applicants can obtain an application by visiting Foundation For The Carolinas' online scholarships portal at <https://fftscholarships.communityforce.com>.

Former public-school teachers, the McKays strongly believed that education was an important part of their legacy. Thanks to the sisters' generous gift, students of Scotland County will be able to fulfill their college aspirations. Foundation For The Carolinas currently manages nearly 150 scholarship programs on behalf of donors and fundholders.
