Linda Orr Gives $2 Million to FFTC
Linda Orr Has a Passion for Foreign Studies at Duke University, Linda joined our family of more than 2,000 charitable funds. From non-profits to foundations, she is an active community member and a proponent of philanthropy on to the next generation is her mission. In 2014, Linda Orr, a member of the Communities of Supportive Housing for Homeless, returned to FFTC, taking advantage of our partnerships to create real and lasting impact. We are pleased to bring you her story.

We are inspiring new ways for nonprofits to benefit from our collective impact. In the past year, we have seen more than 700 community foundations that formed to give high school students a voice, work with students to create a shared vision, and to create opportunities for everyone.

Record Year of Giving and Impact

A new generation of donors are giving back.

The endowment aims to provide a $20 million rental fund to benefit our region for generations to come. The endowment is shaping up to be yet another record year of giving and grantmaking among the more than 700 community foundations in the United States. And 2014 is also making strides, and at the end of the year we will have a number of exciting results.

Our Communities¿ clients have been committed to helping students, veterans with families transition to their funds – an incredible commitment to philanthropy. Over the past 15 years, our clients have gifted more than $2 billion to FFTC, taking advantage of our partnerships to create real and lasting impact. In 2014 E4E Relief was formally established as a subsidiary of FFTC. Since then, we have offered such programs since the inception of E4E Relief, LLC, which provides disaster and recovery services.

We have seen dramatic change in the work of the Robinson Foundation. It’s a problem the Robinson Foundation seeks to address in the coming years. We have seen a number of programs designed to help veterans, homeless and at-risk families, as well as returning veterans, who have made the transition back to the community. Together with a number of partners, we have helped to create real and lasting impact.

Our Communities are made up of more than 700 community foundations that form to give high school students a voice, work with students to create a shared vision, and to create opportunities for everyone.
