A Type I supporting organization is an attractive option for donors who want relative autonomy, high deductibility and minimal administrative work. It is a separate legal entity formed as a corporation or trust which operates like a subsidiary of a corporation.

Foundation For The Carolinas can help donors establish and administer a Type I supporting organization with a minimum gift of $2 million. The donor and FFTC collaborate to appoint a board, a majority of which must be appointed by FFTC, which is the supported organization.

This unique relationship with FFTC qualifies the supporting organization for treatment as a 501(c)(3) public charity by the IRS, allowing the donor to benefit from more advantageous charitable tax deductibility.

Is a Supporting Organization Right For You?

An FFTC Supporting Organization is a qualified, tax-exempt public charity that allows you, your family or your business to partner with Foundation For The Carolinas to maximize the impact of grantmaking.

There are many advantages to choosing an FFTC Supporting Organization:

- Broad grantmaking possibilities with support from FFTC’s expert staff
- Public charity tax deduction
- No annual payout requirement
- Increased charitable deductibility relative to your adjusted gross income
- Significant tax advantages for gifts of closely held stock, real property and similar assets
- Governance and administrative support from FFTC staff
- Ability to hire staff, convene a board and pay expenses
- Administrative oversight, including IRS-mandated tax returns and annual audits handled by FFTC

The Right Choice for Gifts of Business Interests

FFTC Supporting Organizations are particularly good solutions for gifts of privately held assets.

Governed by their own boards and strengthened by FFTC grantmaking services, they have access to a broad investment platform with the tax benefits of a public charity.

They offer the following additional benefits:

- Provide a charitable deduction based on the full fair market value, rather than based on tax valuation.
- Are not subject to the self-dealing rules or excess business holding rules that apply to both private foundations and donor advised funds. Excess business holding rules restrict how long the charitable entity can hold and invest in such assets.

The Seymour Family Foundation was established in 2015 by Bill and Emmaday Seymour as a Type I supporting organization of Foundation For The Carolinas.

Critical to his decision to establish a supporting organization – as opposed to a private foundation or other philanthropic fund – was the fact that Bill wanted his business, Primax Properties, to be a major part of his current and future giving strategy. Bill’s desire is that Primax continue on after his death in order to provide for the “family” of Primax employees and leverage its continued success for philanthropic impact.

The Type I supporting organization structure best accomplishes both objectives. The Seymour Family Foundation will be funded primarily with cash during Bill and Emmaday’s lifetimes, but at maturity, Primax Properties will be owned by the Foundation, which will hold its nonvoting interests. This provides for the continuation of the business, led by the remaining members of the Primax leadership team, while the Seymour Family Foundation can use the net profits to fund worthy causes and organizations, in keeping with Bill and Emmaday’s charitable goals.
