

Elizabeth Trotman

Vice President of Civic Leadership Programs and Initiatives

Elizabeth Trotman is the Senior Vice President of Civic Leadership Programs and Initiatives at Foundation For The Carolinas, where she is responsible for assisting with civic leadership initiative strategy development, integration and expansion. Through the Robinson Center For Civic Leadership, she works to convene partners and direct funding to address our region's greatest needs and opportunities.

A native of Columbus, Ohio, she has served in the nonprofit sector for more than 20 years, impacting the community through organizations such as United Way of Central Ohio, Nationwide Children's Hospital, Charlotte Family Housing, The Charlotte Resilience Project and Novant Health.

Elizabeth has led several community initiatives aimed at improving the lives of children, women and families by focusing on key areas including but not limited to, education, health and wellness, homelessness, mental health and resilience, entrepreneurship, and place-based neighborhood development. She has delivered several workshops, trainings and presentations on key community issues and needs. Elizabeth has a degree in communication (public relations) from Otterbein University and a Master of Public Administration and Leadership from The Ohio State University. She currently serves on the Continuum of Care Governing Board, the Crosland Foundation Board and the UNC Charlotte's Women + Girls Research Alliance Advisory Board. She resides in Pineville, North Carolina with her husband Anthony, and is a bonus mom to one daughter, Camille.
